Pandemic Second Opinion

February 2, 2022

U.S. Senator Ron Johnson's aim, in moderating a panel discussion last week, was to provide, in his words, a "long-overdue second opinion" on the coronavirus pandemic. The senior senator from Wisconsin gathered a wide variety of experts who offered up a lot of information.

Included in the nearly five hours of material is some startling information — data derived from military personnel and their families.

You may remember that the current president has made the "vaccines" mandatory for the military. Well, Ohio attorney Thomas Renz "presented DOD medical billing data from the Defense Medical Epidemiology Database (DMED) that paints a shockingly disturbing picture of the health of our service members in 2021," writes Daniel Horowitz for Blaze.

What was found?

- A massive 300% increase in DMED codes registered for miscarriages in the military

- Cancer diagnoses: up nearly 300%

- Diagnosis codes for neurological issues: up 1000%

- Bell's palsy: 291% increase

- Female infertility: up 471%

- Pulmonary embolisms: 467% increase

- Congenital malformations: 156% rise

Now, these do not represent individual cases, but specific diagnoses, which can be multiple for each patient. Still: alarming.

And in case you might wonder about blaming COVID itself for some of these, consider the miscarriage rate: it was normal in 2020, before the vaccines, and it spiked in 2021, with the vaccines.

These rate increases were based on data going back five years prior to 2021.

While these issues need to be fully addressed, the sad truth is that approved, official government personnel and the pro-vax "expert" authorities declined to participate in the Wisconsin Republican's hearing.

More evidence that the pandemic has become a partisan issue, with Democrats pushing the official narrative.

This is Common Sense. I'm Paul Jacob.
