

Doctor Dead End

October 24, 2022

Dr. Anthony Fauci not only holds a smoking gun, he's standing over the corpse and sniffing the barrel, grinning like a cartoon villain.

Last week we considered the gross indecency of this director of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID) and lead member of the White House Coronavirus Task Force funding Peter Daszak and the Wuhan lab to do more research on bat coronaviruses — to the tune of “Six Million Dimes.”

And now that a Boston group has publicized its gain-of-function research, we should ask ourselves: is Fauci involved in this, too? The answer is: YES — to the tune of $2.5 million!

But even the Annenberg Public Policy Center's fact checkers admit that “some officials have overstated the transmission protection provided by the vaccines.”

This group of researchers, jiggering with a bat virus and the Omicron variant's version of the infamous spiked protein, made a new iteration that killed 80 percent of infected mice. Success? What?!?

We had been told that gain-of-function was against policy.

But that wise policy is no match for Fauci's mania.

Wait, you cry, at least they developed the vaccines!

Well, to what purpose?

A few weeks ago, in a European Parliament hearing, a Pfizer bigwig admitted that when the multinational introduced its anti-COVID mRNA “vaccine,” it had not even researched the ability of the jab to reduce transmissibility of the virus.

“We had to really move at the speed of science to really understand what was taking place in the market,” Pfizer senior executive Janine Small explained. “And from that point of view we had to do everything at risk.”

Clear? As mud?

This is a scandal . . . except . . . not according to FactCheck.org, which states that “nobody claimed the vaccines — Pfizer's nor Moderna's — were tested for transmission prevention before they hit the market.”

But even the Annenberg Public Policy Center's fact checkers admit that “some officials have overstated the transmission protection provided by the vaccines.”

Chiefest of these is Fauci, who said last year that by getting vaccinated we “contribute to the community health by preventing the spread of the virus throughout the community. In other words, you become a dead end to the virus.”

Fauci, at the top of the Big Gov/Big Pharma dung heap, is himself a dead end — to responsible medicine.

This is Common Sense. I'm Paul Jacob.
