

Against British Censorship

April 2, 2025

The dictates of the neo-redcoat British government, led by Prime Minister Keir Starmer, are out of control.

Starmer's Labour government wants the whole world to obey its censorship demands. The latest is that its Office of Communications, called Ofcom, is threatening the American social media platforms Gab and Kiwi Farms with mega-steep fines for unwaveringly safeguarding the freedom of speech of users.

Which of course Gab and Kiwi Farms have every right to do.

Ofcom says it'll sock Gab with fines of up $23 million USD for refusing to censor its users per UK orders.

"We will not pay one cent," says Gab CEO Andrew Torba.

Gab is not only not cooperating with Ofcom's insanity, it has also reported the Starmer government to the U.S. Trade Representative and the U.S. Department of Justice in hopes that the U.S. government will retaliate against the United Kingdom for trying to gag social media in the United States.

Kiwi Farms, threatened with the same fine of up to 10 percent of worldwide revenue, is telling UK users who want to use the site to access it through a VPN or Tor in order to protect their online traffic and disguise which country they're from. Otherwise, they're out of luck.

Kiwi has also reported success in obtaining pro bono counsel for dealing with "the UK's attempts to enforce its censorship regime in the United States."

As the U.S. president famously said in Butler, Pennsylvania: "Fight! Fight! Fight!"

This is Common Sense. I'm Paul Jacob.
